Parma Mayor Will Give State Of The City At Watershed Stewardship Center

by Carolyn Kovach

Parma Mayor Tim DeGeeter will give his 2020 State of the City address at 6 p.m., Tuesday, Feb. 25. The presentation is open to the public, and parking is free. Continuing the trend started when he entered office in 2012, the mayor will highlight a community partner by taking his address outside of Parma City Hall. This year, the address will be delivered at Cleveland Metroparks Watershed Stewardship Center in West Creek Reservation, 2277 West Ridgewood Drive, Parma. The presentation will be in the multipurpose room.

"The Watershed Stewardship Center is dedicated to scientific research and promoting sustainable action. Its science-based programs encourage teachers, students, professionals and the public to learn about storm-water management methods," said Mayor Tim DeGeeter. "In addition to educating the public, the center is enhancing and protecting our urban watersheds through innovative community programming, as well as encouraging regional participation in watershed issues. Its key partners include the Northeast Ohio Regional Sewer District and West Creek Conservancy. Both of those organizations work closely with our city," DeGeeter added.

Past State of the City speeches were held at Cuyahoga Community College’s Western Campus, Sheet Metals Workers Local 33, Parma’s General Motors plant, University Hospital’s Parma Medical Center and Cuyahoga County Public Library. "Our administration’s approach has always been to combine common sense and hard work to produce real results," DeGeeter said. "We’re proud to share some of our positive results at this year’s State of the City address."

Paramedic Looks Out For His Neighbors

by Carolyn Kovach

Ward 2 Councilwoman Debbie Lime and Parma Mayor Tim DeGeeter recognized Dennis Gerlich as Citizen of the Month at a January council meeting. Lime nominated Gerlich because she said he is always looking out for his neighbors.

In 2019, Gerlich trimmed street curb weeds in his neighborhood on Dorothy Avenue, starting from Ridge Road and ending at Chestnut Hills Drive, which added up to nearly 100 lawns. He then painted the faded street addresses along the curb at each home to make it easier for emergency workers to find addresses at night. A current paramedic with Physicians Ambulance, Gerlich said he knows firsthand how much easier it is to find a house address at night if it appears on the curb.

"Several of his neighbors didn’t realize Dennis had done this work because he quietly went about the task. Dennis embodies the true spirit of a good neighbor," DeGeeter said. Gerlich often stands by for emergencies at special exhibitions, sporting events and area rock concerts, including the annual June Parma Area Chamber of Commerce’s Rib ‘N Rock Music Festival & BBQ Cookoff. He has volunteered on Parma CERT (Citizens Emergency Response Team) since its inception and has served as a public information officer, certified trainer, website content manager and fundraiser.

For all his volunteerism throughout the years, Gerlich is a former Parma Area Chamber of Commerce Pride Award recipient.

Amanda Boyd is a proud Parma resident who serves on the city’s Board of Building Appeals. She just had to visit our city’s namesake when she visited Italy last fall. Lime’s grandchildren join him for a photo in the council chamber with Parma Mayor Tim DeGeeter and Councilwoman Debbie Lime.

Parma’s Second Annual Pizza Bake Off A Huge Success

by Kathie Zipp

The Young Professionals of Parma (YPOP), in conjunction with the cities of Parma, Parma Heights and Seven Hills, hosted the Parma area’s second-annual pizza bake off last month. More than 600 guests attended the event at the city’s UAW hall, enjoying pizza from a variety of local pizza shops and bars. A portion of proceeds benefited the Parma Animal Shelter.

A panel of celebrity judges recognized State Road Pizza as the Best Overall Winner, Play’s Pizza for Best Sauce and Wagon Wheel for Best Crust. Proud of Parma honored State Road Pizza with the People’s Choice award which went to Master’s Pizza.

In light of an unexpected large turnout and feedback from last year’s event, The Young Professionals of Parma implemented a committee which met frequently throughout the summer and fall to implement changes to improve the event and ensure it ran smoothly this year. Colored plates and punch cards helped ease the tasting and voting process and expanded space in the UAW hall provided plenty of room for hundreds of guests.

Event coordinators are thankful for everyone who volunteered, the Baker’s Basement for providing music, Company Car and Limousine for providing a parking shuttle, Burning River Entertainment for their photo booth and uplighting, Zap Entertainment for providing a magician and balloon artist, The Little Birdie Loon artist, The Little Birdie Animal Shelter. The President’s Corner
by Sean Brennan, Parma City Council President

“Representatives . . . shall be apportioned among the several states which shall be included within this Union, according to their respective numbers . . . The actual enumeration shall be made . . . within every subsequent Term of ten years.” This quote from Article I of the U.S. Constitution set up our decennial census in 1790 and we have been counting up the population every ten years since.

The importance of the census cannot be underestimated, as it determines the number of representatives each state receives in the U.S. House of Representatives and how the federal government distributes hundreds of millions of dollars to local communities, like Parma. The census data is also used by local governments, businesses, and a variety of other organizations to make decisions about where to locate hospitals, open new restaurants, or draw boundaries for school enrollment, etc.

Everyone living in the 50 states, District of Columbia, and five U.S. territories (Puerto Rico, American Samoa, the Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands, Guam, and the U.S. Virgin Islands) is required by law to be counted in the 2020 Census. In fact, participating in the census is required by law, even if you recently completed another survey from the Census Bureau. A complete and accurate count is critical for you and our community.

Households will begin receiving official Census Bureau mail in early March with detailed information on how to respond to the 2020 Census online, by phone, or by mail. During the 2020 Census, the Census Bureau will never ask you for your Social Security number, money or donations, anything on behalf of a political party, or your bank or credit card account numbers. If someone claiming to be from the Census Bureau contacts you via email or phone and asks you for one of these things, it’s a scam, and you should not cooperate.

Your personal information is kept confidential. The Census Bureau is bound by federal law to protect your information, and your data is used only for statistical purposes. Your responses are compiled with information from other homes to produce statistics, which never identify you or your home or any person in your home. Further, your responses cannot be used against you by any government agency or court in any way.

The Census Bureau is still in need of many census workers. The pay is in the $21 an hour range for both office and census taker positions. Authorized expenses, such as mileage, are reimbursed for employees doing field work. Temporary positions for the 2020 Census feature flexible hours—a perfect fit if you are looking to earn extra money, even if you already have other commitments. This is your chance to play a role in history by taking part in the momentous task of counting our nation’s population.

Please join my family and fill out and return your census survey as soon as you receive it. You, too, can inspire others. Tell everyone—your friends, family, neighbors, and co-workers—that you will complete the census, and tell them why it’s important that they respond. To find out more about the 2020 U.S. census visit www.2020census.gov.

Sirl’s Automotive Earns Trust Award
by Laura Oravec

Robert Oravec from Sirl’s Automotive of Parma, received the American Towman Trust Award in Atlantic City on December 6th, 2019 at the world’s largest trade show for towing professionals, the American Towman Exposition. A towing company that receives the award was nominated by a third party organization in the towing trade who has a working relationship with that towing company and the towing company also scored high on customer reviews on the internet (Google, Yelp). The Trust Award is presented by American Towman Magazine, the towing industry’s premier trade publication.

Sirl’s Automotive received the exclusive American Towman Trust Pin at the Towed Towers ceremony held in the Sheraton Atlantic City Convention Center Hotel. The ceremony included a cameo performance from songwriter Mike Corbin playing the guitar and singing a new original song, “Trust”, in honor of the tow companies receiving the pin. A towing service receives a high percentage of first-time callers. The Trust award signifies a company that has a track record of trustworthiness, thus the award has great value for its recipient.

a raffle prize, and CLE Cookie Dough Co. for serving dessert. Also, a variety of sponsors made the event possible including Michelle Green Professionals Group of HER Realtors and Nick Battilana of State Farm. “The Parma Pizza Bake Off is such a big and fun event, it makes so much sense for businesses to participate,” said Battilana. “I get to interact with so many locals who may never have heard of me or my office, but now have heard of my office.”

Plus, it’s becoming an event that people in Parma look forward to and I love being able to support the Parma community.”

Young Professionals of Parma president Jackie Baraoana was excited to put on the second annual event and is pleased with the turnout and flow. She appreciates the support of city officials and the interest from pizza vendors and attendees. She looks forward to the opportunity to host this community event in the future. “I want the public, especially existing residents and young people considering potentially buying homes and raising families in Parma, to think ‘Wow, it’s really cool that Parma puts on these kinds of events; this is a city I want to be part of.’”

Nurse Navigator Eases The Cancer Journey For Patients

by CJ Sheppard

A nurse navigator can be the invaluable guide in the complicated and unpredictable journey of a cancer patient. This is the critical role of UH Seidman Cancer Center for a nurse like Susan Lawrence, BSN, RN, at University Hospitals Parma Medical Center. She can help a man with multiple myeloma, under the care of a hematologist at University Hospitals’ main campus, arrange regular infusions close to home as he prepares for a bone marrow transplant. She can schedule more convenient chemotherapy appointments for a woman with breast cancer, whose surgeon is based on the east side. And for patients whose specialist is only at UH main campus for a rare kind of cancer, she can ensure that thrice-weekly bloodwork is at least obtained at UH Parma, preventing a trip downtown.

Nurse navigators stay with patients from diagnosis through survivorship, bringing their experience full circle. They ensure breast biopsy patients receive their results and radiation therapy and chemotherapy appointments are scheduled. They also direct patients toward financial counseling and coordinating helpful services from partner agencies such as the American Cancer Society. “We’re here to help,” says Susan, whose calming demeanor puts patients at ease. Like her counterparts at other Seidman locations, she teaches a chemo class to help patients understand what to expect during chemotherapy and how to handle side effects. “Being able to see someone fearful, and put his or her mind at ease, is rewarding,” Susan says. “I can show them that cancer is manageable, that they are stronger than they think, and guide them along the path.”

Susan Lawrence, UH Seidman Cancer Center’s Nurse Navigator at UH Parma Medical Center, helps coordinate scheduling and accessing services for oncology patients.

Asset Corner #122 by Gene Lovaty

February’s Asset Category: Positive Values. You are what you believe. Values shape young people’s relationships, behaviors, choices, and sense of who they are. Although positive values help young people avoid risky behaviors, they also help guide their day-to-day actions and interactions. Thus, values inspire, not just prohibit. Young people who have positive values are more likely to listen to their conscience, help others, be independent, tell right from wrong, and feel happy. Ultimately, positive values help young people make their own decisions rather than imitate friends or follow trends. Search Institute has identified these six assets in the positive value category that are crucial for helping young people:

This month’s column will focus on Asset #29 Honesty:

Honesty is the best policy

Honesty is the best policy. Honest people are trustworthy, sincere, and genuine. They display dignity and earn respect from peers and others in the community. Although telling the truth is not always easy, teaching young people the value of honesty is important. Without it, dishonest habits, such as lying and cheating, can become a big problem. Honesty is crucial for success in all areas of life, including relationships, school, and jobs.

Research shows that young people are more likely to grow up healthy when they tell the truth, even when it’s not easy. Honesty leads to less violence and reliance on alcohol and other drugs. About 66 percent of young people, ages 11–18, say they tell the truth even when it’s not easy, according to Search Institute surveys. People who are honest value diversity, good health, and success in school. They also make effective leaders.

Tips for building this asset

To install the value of honesty, adults need to talk about it, model it, and explain why it’s important. Work with your family, school, and community to come up with rules about honesty and the consequences for dishonesty. Encourage the young people you know to make a personal commitment to tell the truth—and you do the same. Honestly admit to your own successes and mistakes.

Also try this

In your home and family: Don’t overreact or be accusatory if you suspect that your child is lying to you. Instead, give her or him the opportunity to tell the truth by asking questions, such as “Do you think I may be struggling with believing you right now?”

In your neighborhood and community: Model honest behavior. For example, return extra change if you receive too much from a store clerk.

In your school or youth program: Discuss what it means to be honest. Ask whether there are situations in which it’s better to tell a “little white lie.”

Visit www.parentsmarts.org or www.search-institute.org/assets for more information about the 40 Developmental Assets and tips for helping young people build them. Or go here: http://www.parentsmarts.org/ for great asset-based parenting tips, tricks, activities and ideas.

Cassidy Theatre, Inc. Board Has New Leader In Michael Caraffi

by Rick Hauser

As he indicated he intended to do more than 18 months ago, Bob Stoeser has now formally stepped down from his leadership role as Board President at the Cassidy Theatre, Inc., holding that position for 10 years. New at the helm is President Michael “Mike” Caraffi, who works for PNC Bank and has an extensive background as a business analyst. He has been a longtime volunteer actor, performer and director at our local community theatre gem. Caraffi is a good choice for heading up the theatre’s board. The Cassidy, which has struggled to fill seats for years since the decision to privatize it, The municipal- ity still owns the building, but no longer has the responsibility for its day-to-day operation. Caraffi, an accomplished pianist and performer, knows both sides of the theatrical and business equation – something that will come in handy as he works to chart a new course for our local community theatre, founded by the late parma Heights Mayor Paul W. Cassidy for his wife, Elise, a former actress, in 1974.

Rounding out the Theatre Board for 2020 are Vice President Georgi- a Petrucci Muttill; Secretary Katie Flanagan; and Treasurer Sarah Dur- ham, along with Board members Steve DeLucas, Mike Larochelle, Sha- ron Mickle and Dan Tomson, the latter being the city’s longtime Recreation Department Supervisor.

YOUTH THEATRE CLASSES AND WORKSHOPS – The Cassidy Youth Theatre spring classes and workshop will begin February 15 and continue through April 11, and will run Saturday from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

The classes and workshops are for youth ages 4–17. No previous theatrical experience is necessary.

For more information, visit www.cassidytheatre.com or call 440.842.4600.

Recently, the Parma City School District received some good news from the Ohio Department of Education. At the January 6, 2020, PSCD Board of Education meeting, Sean Nuccio informed the community that the PSCD had been removed from Fiscal Caution status by the Ohio Department of Education. The PSCD was originally put into Fiscal Caution by ODE on August 1, 2016, as a result of being placed in Fiscal Caution earlier in the year. The district has been able to review district finances and compare five-year forecasts.

"The Ohio Department of Education monitored our monthly transactions and our monthly reports," PCSD Treasurer Sean Nuccio explained. "We spoke a couple of times a month and we talked about things that we were concerned about. They also attended some of our finance committee meetings. And we both did five-year forecasts and we talked and compared them. So it was mostly monitoring." Beginning in 2016, the district also began reducing expenditures in the general fund budget and enhancing revenues through approved fiscal recovery plans. The continuation of these reductions is just one reason the district finds itself in a more financially stable position. "We’ve turned our finances around," Nuccio added. "We can forecast our financial stability and the state doesn’t feel like we need their help anymore."

"The project was about suicide and how to help start the conversation about suicide," said PCSD Seventh-grade student, Dinella Messina, Greenbriar Elementary School. "I had an uncle who committed suicide almost 10 years ago," Messina said. "We can’t just go and spend the money frivolously. We will continue to maintain that close oversight of our finances and we will continue to make sound financial choices as we move forward."

"One of our three main district goals is to practice fiscal responsibility," Smialek added. "As we move forward, we will continue to closely monitor our finances, make sound financial decisions, and practice fiscal responsibility to provide the best possible educational experience for our students.

Middle school students spread simple message of help, hope to others

by Amy Pipik

Always love your selfie. This is the simple message three middle school students have for their peers and the community.

Cheyenne Nowak, Hillside Middle School seventh-grader, Dinella Messina, Greenbriar Middle School seventh-grader, and Peyton Giaimo, St. Joseph Catholic School eighth-grader are cadette members of Girl Scout Troop 73106 in Parma. For their Silver Award Project, which is the highest award a cadette can earn, these passionate students focused on anxiety, depression, and suicide prevention among teens.

"The project was about suicide and how we can prevent that from happening because when kids are in depression, have anxiety or are broken down in their self-esteem, they tend to want to hurt themselves or even commit suicide," Nowak explained.

Students in their classrooms and at their schools also shared their message that anxiety and depression are not just a problem for adults, but can also happen among teens.

"We want to really start the conversation about mental health among teens, asking how they are doing," they said. They also made signs with inspirational quotes around mental health awareness, spread awareness at PSCD’s Opening Kick-Off, visited Cornerstone of Hope and participated in the NAMI (National Alliance on Mental Illness) walk.

The girls worked tirelessly on this project and successfully completed all the requirements by the first semester of this school year. This is a 50-hour community service project and the main goal was to identify a need in the community and work on a solution to help make their community a better place.

"This project was important to me because I had an uncle who committed suicide almost 10 years ago," Messina said. "Nowak and Giaimo shared that they have been personally impacted by this topic, as well.

"I just want people to remember that there is always someone out there that can help you," Nowak shared.

"And there is always someone who cares," Giaimo added.

Give Them Bread And Circus... by Davidione Pearl
America, At this time in history the best way we can honor our nation's only King, Dr. Martin Luther King, is not in recurring platitude and vapid utterances of momentary pride on his given holiday - returning as usual shortly after to a collective state of social dismissal and spiritual decay; on the contrary, it is to raise high your ballots in the voting booth with at minimum the same gusto and zeal we choose to exhibit in the fanaticism of sport, and three hour lines in eager anticipation of a new fried chicken sandwich, neither of which support a future fundamentally to advance our most sacred investment, each other...

I Believe
by Daniel Taddeo
According to the Bible, marriage is an institution put in place by God, in which two adults of different gender choose to share an intimate, personal, and lasting relationship. Doing otherwise does not change this. As a society, we are moving in the direction of doing-away-with morality from our way of life. This has resulted in an increase of senseless acts of violence. Matters can only become worse with each succeeding generation. Godly living involves our service to others via the use of our time, talents, abilities, and material possessions.

God’s law points out what is right, good, and true, and we are to live accordingly. Because of our sinful nature, however, we all fall short and our works cannot save us. This directs us to our need for grace. It is God’s grace that makes salvation a reality for each faithful believer. Jesus promised that they who hear His Word and believe in Him who sent the Word and believe in Him will have everlasting life, and they shall not come into condemnation but shall pass from death into life.

Life is a four-sided affair: physical, mental, social and spiritual. It is a four-fold opportunity to grow. It helps us to touch life at all angles, absorb strength from all contacts, and pour out power on all fronts. The more we pour out, the more we find to pour. The driving population needs to be more serious regarding distractions while driving, such as texting. They need to understand the risks to themselves and other people. The surest way to guarantee ourselves a miserable existence is to live only for self and not consider the good of others. We are to speak our truth quietly and clearly and listen to others, even the dull and the ignorant. They, too, have their story.

Self-reflection is always a good exercise. What I believe is a work in progress, not limited to these statements and subject to change. What do YOU believe?
by Lee Kamps

Last month I wrote a column with a trip back to a pivotal year in history, exactly 100 years ago. After a break, let’s go to Sherman and Peabody’s “way back” machine again to 1920. I believe that I was mentioning the world of sports in 1920 when we left. Here we go.

The result of the eight Chicago White Sox players being thrown out of baseball for life took the White Sox out of the chase for the American League pennant. But another team in the pennant race were the revitalized New York Yankees who had benefitted from the biggest off season deal of all time.

The Boston Red Sox sold their best player to the Yankees for cash after the 1919 season so the owner could recoup his losses after backing a Broadway play that flopped. The sale of Babe Ruth made the Yankees contenders. He had led baseball in home runs in 1919 by hitting 29 home runs. In 1920, a new tighter wound ball was introduced by hitting 54 home runs that year. Babe Ruth hit 54 home runs that year. The Boston Red Sox had won the 1918 World Series, but it would be that year. The Boston Red Sox had won the World Series, the Cleveland Indians the only player in Major League Baseball history to be killed while playing the game.

The 1920 World Series became one of the best world series to date. It featured the first grand slam home run in world series history as well as the only unassisted triple play in a World Series and the first home run by a pitcher. In the World Series, the Cleveland Indians defeated the Brooklyn Robins (later renamed the Trolley Dodgers, shortened to Dodgers) five wins to two in a best of nine series.

The old League Park baseball field where that 1920 World Series was played has been restored. It is at the corner of East 66th and Lexington in the Hough neighborhood.

The election of 1920 also made history. The Republican candidate, Warren Harding, conducted a “front porch campaign” from his house in Marion Ohio. There was no cross country railroad tour that year. It was just the media coming from all over the nation to hear Harding give speeches from his front porch with the reporters and crowd in front of his house. A garage behind the house was converted to a media room where national media could prepare their stories about the candidate.

The election was a landslide victory for Warren Harding and the Republican party. Harding promised a “return to normalcy” and that resonated with the voters who were tired of the United States trying to fix the troubles of the world. In 1920 the congress, controlled by Republicans, rejected the Treaty of Versailles with its League of Nations. This marked a significant shift from Woodrow Wilson’s focus on world events to a return to American isolationism. Another interesting fact about the 1920 presidential election was that the election returns were broadcast over a new medium for the first time, radio, on a station out of Pittsburgh.

In 1920, a young Italian who immigrated to the United States as a young child from Sicily was sent from New York to Chicago because things were “getting too hot” for him in New York. He was sent to Chicago to be under the protection of their mob boss Johnny Torrio. That young man, Alphonse Capone, found prohibition and Chicago to be a wide open city. By the middle of the decade, he would control most of the illegal “hooch” in Chicago.

Another thing “invented” in 1920 was from another Italian immigrant named Carlo Ponzi who had discovered a new way to get rich quick through a chain letter. “Investors” would pass it on to others and receive interest on their investment. Of course, that “interest” was paid by deposits from later “investors”. Eventually the scheme collapsed, but for many Carlo Ponzi was a hero who showed them that anyone could become rich. That form of scheme is now called a “Ponzi scheme” after Carlo Ponzi.

Well that concludes our brief visit to 1920. We all know what happened after that year and how Prohibition worked out. But in 1920, all that was in the future. It was an exciting year.

Parma Dad Running For US House Of Representatives

by Lucy Alvarez

A few weeks ago a woman knocked on my door for the “Karpus for Congress” campaign, it was freezing, so she stepped inside. Standing in my foyer she began telling me about Ronald Karpus III a congressional candidate. She told me he was born and raised in Parma, a graduate of Parma Senior High School, and that he was a husband and they had 6 kids. My mouth about hit the floor as I repeated “did you say 6 kids?” the woman laughed and nodded. She further explained he was a member of the Democratic party and a blue collar worker.

At this point I expected her to ask for my support or a donation... instead she said “We’re out canvassing today to find out what issues are keeping vot- ers in the district awake at night?”. I explained that I was on a fixed income and my monthly medications were more than my mortgage payment ever was. She took some notes, we chatted for a few more moments then asked me if Ron or his wife could give me a call. I of course said yes and she wrote down my phone number.

Two days later my phone rang, that voice on the other end introduced herself, and that a volunteer for her husband’s campaign had brought them a message about my situation. She listened intently, only asking ques- tions when I paused after a thought. She asked me “What would make your healthcare coverage work better?”, as in what specific changes could help make my life just a little easier. I explained the drug costs have continued to increase, and that when the pharmacist tells me to download an app to compare prices, I’m ashamed to tell her I don’t know how. We talked for a little while longer, only ending the conver- sation when the sound of kids filled the room.

State Rep. Jeffrey Crossman Asks You To Support This Years Census.

by Mallory DeTota

Welcome to 2020 – a new decade begins and, with that, the U.S. Consti- tution requires the government conduct another count of all of its citizens. The efforts to complete this extremely important count are now underway and each time the Census occurs there are always questions. We answer the most common questions related to the count below and we strongly encourage every- one to support the Census this year so we can maximize the investment we receive in our community!

What You Need to know what is the Census?
The Census is conducted every ten years pursuant to Article I, section 2 of the U.S. Constitution. The Census measures population demographics across the country and every household.

My family and I have deep ties to Parma that span the past half century. Our family law practice, Russo, Rosalina & Co. LPA, opened 43 years ago across the street from City Hall, and my grandparents lived in Parma for 50 years. As a mother of four, a small business owner and a personal attorney, I have dedicated my career to working with families, seniors and hard-working employees. I’d like to bring a more balanced perspective to the Court.

Our family law practice, Russo, Rosalina & Co., handles a wide range of matters that have a profound impact on the lives of people – not corporations. We have helped over 150,000 people in the past four decades – mostly residents from Parma, Parma Heights and Severn Hills. Due to my dedication to hard working people, I am endorsed by Laborers Local 860, TEAMSTERS OHIO D.R.I.V.E., Laborers Local 310, North Shore AFL-CIO, Municipal Foreman and Laborers Local 1099, and Ohio State Council of Machinists Labor Union.

Tri-C Western Campus Program Examines Media Bias And The Information Ecosystem

by John Horton

Learn how to look past sensationalized headlines and determine the legitimacy of news sources during an upcoming discussion at the Western Campus of Cuyahoga Community College (Tri-C). The free program — “The Media Bias Chart: The Importance of Rating News Sources for Reliability and Bias” — will take place from 12:30-1:45 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 6, at Tri-C’s Western Campus Theatre in Parma.

Vanessa Otero, who created the Media Bias Chart to provide a system for rating news legitimacy, will lead the discussion. The Colorado patent attorney’s infographic chart debuted in 2016 and went viral as people sought ways to make sense of the media landscape.

Visit www.tri-c.edu/mediabias to reserve a seat at the free event. There will be a reception after the presentation.

Call 216-987-5308 for more information. Western Campus is located at 11000 Pleasant Valley Road in Parma.

the background, I assume after coming home from school. Before hanging up, I asked her why she was asking, and she told me “Ron knows what the big problem is, but the only way to fix it in congress is to understand what parts specifically are failing Ohioans.”

My granddaughter was over this weekend and she was asking who I was voting for. She wanted to talk presidential races, but I wanted her to help me find out more about the dad from Parma. I had already found his website, but I wanted to see if there was more information I couldn’t find. She pulled up a video of a bald man giving an interview on a radio station and said “Gram, this is your guy!”. We watched the video together, and I was struck by two things, his ideas always came full circle. By that I mean, he knew he needed buy in from both sides of the aisle to move his policies along. The second was that he corrected the host and wanted to inform the listeners that he had a primary opponent. What novel ideas I thought! His interview was comprehensive, he answered questions from Healthcare, to Social Security and even immigration.

This man is a dad from a working class suburb that truly grasps the gravity of where our country is headed if we don’t intervene. My granddaughter helped me with this, because I wanted to learn more about All Faiths Pantry, a non-profit organization that delivers groceries at no cost to low income seniors over 60 in the Parma, Parma Hts. and surrounding communities.

This year, collection boxes were stationed at the Dollar Bank Branch at Brookpark and Pearl, both Cuyahoga County Public Library Parma branches, UH Parma Medical Center, Office Depot at the Quarry and Middleburg Hts., Parma Area Chamber of Commerce and in the lobby at City Hall.

The final totals for the ninth annual Parma Peanut Butter Drive are: 2,241 pounds of peanut butter and $1,781 in monetary donations, both surpassed last year’s drive.

“I want to thank all of the residents who gave generously to help the neediest among us,” Brennan said. “I also wish to thank our sponsors and to the volunteers at All Faiths Pantry for their time and selfless efforts.”

As All Faiths Pantry Executive Director, I was overjoyed with the results. The community support and effort has provided at least a 3 month supply of peanut butter for our clients, worth thousands of dollars.

“Although the drive has been successful since its inception nine years ago,” Brennan said, “our new sponsors this year – Dollar Bank, Office Max/Office Depot and others – really brought it to a new level. I can’t thank them enough.”

With federal cutbacks on the monthly food stamps across Cuyahoga County looming, any supplemental source of food is essential to people who stand to be affected starting in April.

“We remain committed to helping our clients,” said All Faiths Pantry Program Manager Mark Holan, “and we thank everyone who contributed to the ninth annual Parma Peanut Butter Drive.”

THE PARMA ART SCENE

by Kathryn Mabin

Great Lakes Wood Carvers is celebrating their 45th anniversary year. Congratulations to a great group! The carvers meet every Tuesday evening at the Donna Snodgrass Activities Center for an open carve night. This group welcomes new members, if you are interested stop in and say hello.

Tremont’s Doubting Thomas Gallery, 856 Jefferson Avenue, hosted an exhibition titled Perception, curated by Parma’s Prama ArtSpace & Gallery owner Sean Mabin. This exhibit included the works of Emma Anderson, Todd Hoak, Sean Mabin and Samantha Vickers.

Parma is well represented in the Winter Exhibition & Art Sale at the Cuyahoga Valley Art Center, 2131 Front Street in Cuyahoga Falls. Anthony DeMarco, Parma Fine Arts board member has two photo entries, Nicki Lanzin, Parma Fine Arts instructor, has a watercolor, Parma resident, Mary Ford, has two mixed media and one photo entered, and Adolph Krizmanich has three watercolors.

Lena Atomika Photography is a Parma resident who has over 25 years of photographic experience with bi-coastal exhibitions, and workshops throughout NE Ohio. They are currently offering classes in Japanese Bound Resist, and silk scarf painting on Saturdays in February & March at their studio, located in the Art Craft Building, 2530 Superior Ave. To learn more about their products, or register for classes, visit www.imaginesinbloom.com.

The 2019 Cleveland Photo Fest had a very successful inaugural year. In addition to numerous photo exhibitions, and workshops throughout the Cleveland area, they participated in an International Photo Exchange Exhibition with PhotoMuse. PhotoMuse is India’s first museum dedicated to photography, and is located in Kerala, India. Several photographers from NE Ohio participated in the exchange. Parma resident Mary Ford, and Parma Gallery owner Sean Mabin were selected to have their photos as part of a permanent collection at PhotoMuse.

In addition to her participation in the Winter Exhibition & Art Sale, and her photos being selected for the permanent collection at PhotoMuse in India, you’ll also find Mary Ford at Shades of Grey exhibit at Creative Space Avon, and at Holistic Health and Healing and Elevation in Avon Lake, healing centers.
